The applicant will be requested to clarify the reasons and circumstances of his application and to submit all the requested documents. If there is no Belgian embassy or consulate in the country of residence, the applicant should apply to the Belgian embassy or consulate responsible for that country (and usually located in a neighbouring country). 	EMN NCP Czech Republic	Yes	1. TCNs has to submit an application for first temporary residence permit in person to foreign mission of Estonia which will send it to the Police and Border Guard Board (the PBGB) for proceedings, after the person has been identified/the identity verified and after the taking of biometric data (fingerprinting). If the person is already staying legally in Estonia (for example on a visa or visa-free basis) the application for residence permit may be submitted directly to the PBGB. Person who obtains a long-stay visa (D-visa) should submit it also at a foreign mission of Estonia in person for identification and fingerprinting. In term of short-stay visa (C-visa) and an airport transit visa the provisions of the Visa Code will be implemented. A consular officer of a foreign mission will decide on the issue/or refusal to issue of a visa, however a consular officer is required to coordinate its decision with the PBGB. Exchange of information is arranged via the visa register. Long-stay visa application may be also submitted directly to the PBGB, if person has a legal basis for the stay in Estonia (on visa free basis). If the application for a long-stay visa is submitted to the PBGB, the decision on granting the visa is also made by the PBGB. 2. Yes, the role of the foreign missions is to identify the person and collect all the necessary documents (and data) to compile the application and forwarding it to the PBGB. Nor PBGB or the Ministry of Interior has sent officials to the foreign missions in purpose of receiving applications for residence permits. In this regard, no major changes are planned in the near future.

	EMN NCP Finland	Yes	1. Finnish diplomatic or consular missions receive applications for residence permits and check that the applications are correctly filled in and contain the required documents and information. Missions also collect the biometrics for the residence permit card. After they have checked the application and appendices, they send it to the decision-making authorities. Partial decision maker in work-based residence permit permits is Centres for Economic Development, Transport and the Environment. The Finnish Immigration Service in Finland is the final decision maker. 2. Yes. No, but there is ongoing project called Rotating Immigration Office (AMIF) to develop residence permit procedure and interviews in most challenging Missions. Part of the project is to investigate the possibility to conduct remote interviews in most challenging cases through video connection from Finland. 3. No planned changes at the moment.
	EMN NCP France	Yes	1. For stays over 90 days (3 months), the TCN has to apply for a long-stay visa with the competent French consulate in his/her country of origin or of legal residence, the length and type will depend on the duration and reasons of stay. France-Visas is a single portal with all the information required to guide the applicant through the process and help in every step of the way (preparing the application, entering details, submitting and tracking the application). See below the detailed process:

			First, use “Visa Wizard” on the France-Visas site to check, based on your situation, whether you need a visa and if so, what type. The wizard will also tell you what documents must be enclosed with your application, along with the relevant fee. Once you have checked that you need a visa, you can complete your application on our online portal. You will be asked to create an account and France-Visas will support you in each step of the process. Once you have completed your online application, all you have to do is submit it to your local visa centre. France-Visas will provide you with all necessary information on how and where to submit your application. Once your application has been submitted, track its progress and find out how and when you can collect your passport and how to prepare for your trip to France. Waiting times for appointments and for processing applications will vary depending on your nationality and the time of year. Users are therefore asked to submit their visa applications well in advance of their departure date. 2. Agents from the French consulates are responsible for handling/ receiving long-term visa applications. Once in France, this visa requires registration, upon arrival in France, with the “French Office of Immigration and Integration” or, with the appropriate prefecture responsible for issuing a residence permit. However prefectures will not process again the application, they may verify the housing conditions for example, but usually they do not verify all criteria related to the ground of stay in France. French consulates and their agents depend on the French Ministry for Europe and foreign affairs. Visa policy is shared by both Ministry of the Interior and Ministry for Europe and foreign affairs, whereas residence permit policy depends on the Ministry of the Interior.

Under certain conditions (e.g. if the person has been previously resident in Germany), the immigration authority of the future place of residence must approve the issuance of a visa. The approval of the Federal Employment Agency is obtained from the diplomatic representation, or from the immigration authority if it is involved, if such approval is required for the exercise of gainful employment in future. 2. Yes. Only in exceptional cases and without any focus on the visa procedure. No. 3. An accelerated immigration procedure for skilled workers will be introduced as per 1 March 2020. If the employer is authorised to do so by the person interested in immigrating, it may agree with the local immigration authority to carry out such a procedure. The immigration authority advises the employer in the procedure, for instance with regard to the documents to be submitted by the employee and coordinates the work of the authorities involved in the procedure. Legal deadlines apply to the immigration authorities, to the diplomatic representations where the visa process continues to be implemented, as well as to the authorities responsible for the recognition of the foreign professional qualification.
	EMN NCP Hungary	Yes	1. Except as provided for by law, an application for residence permit may be submitted to any consulate officer of Hungary, or at any other place authorised to accept applications for residence permit located in the country where the applicant's permanent or temporary residence is located, or in the country of the applicant's nationality. Third-country nationals may apply for an entry visa for receiving a residence permit before admission to the country in the application for residence permit, without having to lodge a separate application. Where the application for residence permit is submitted through the employer, the client is nevertheless required to appear in person before the competent authority, when so requested by the authority, for the purpose of data recording and for carrying out other procedural steps.

	EMN NCP Italy	Yes	1. First, it may be useful to underline that –unlike in Finland – in Italy visas are used not only for a short-term or temporary period of residence lasting no more than 90 days. In fact, there is the long sojourn or "national" Visas (NV), which are only valid for visits that are longer than 90 days (type D), with one or more entries, in the territory of the Schengen State whose diplomatic mission issued the visa. An applicant requesting a visa for the first time must appear in person in front of Italian Consular authority in the TCN's country of origin for the collection of his or her biometric data: a photograph and ten fingerprints. For subsequent applications within five years, fingerprints from the VIS (The Visa Information System) file can be re-used unless there is reasonable doubt regarding the applicant's identity. When the visa holder arrives at the external border, the border authorities have access to the VIS to verify

As just mentioned, not all types of residence permit shall be requested through the compilation of the postal kit. The kit must be used for requesting residence permit for: employment, elective residence, renewal of asylum and statelessness residence permit, conversion from another type of residence permit, family and religious grounds, scientific research, studies, training, tourism, adoption and foster care. The other types of residence permit shall be asked directly to the Headquarters Police. To this regard, the platform "Cupa Project" provides an embedded system which Police Headquarters of the different municipalities should include in their website to give applicants the possibility to book the date for initiate the residence permit procedure.

	EMN NCP Netherlands	Yes	1. In case of a short-stay-visa, for example in the case of a work visit, the applicant applies for a visa at a Dutch foreign mission (embassy or consulate) in the country of origin or country of continuous residence. Applicants, among other conditions, need an invitation by an employer or sponsor, sufficient financial means and reason to return to the country of residence in order to be eligible for a short-stay-visit. The visa application is generally handled by one of the Central Support Offices (CSO) of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, but the application is sometimes put before the Visa Service of the Immigration and Naturalization Service (IND). If the applicant has a nationality from Australia, Canada, Japan, Monaco, New-Zealand, Vatican City, the United States, or South-Korea, this does not apply. A D-visa category is used for the MVV visa. In case of a positive decision, the Dutch Embassy or Consulate issues the provisional residence permit ('MVV Inreisvisum') and receives an MVV_sticker his/her passport to travel to the Netherlands. During this process, the Dutch Embassy or Consulate checks certain official documents, such as birth certificates. Once arrived in the Netherlands, the residence permit can be automatically acquired at the Dutch Immigration- and Naturalization Service. 2. In principle, the Dutch Immigration- and Naturalization Service in the Netherlands is responsible for the (long-stay) residence permit application procedure. Ultimately, this party decides whether the request is approved or not. However, since the provision of a provisional residence permit ('MVV', the visa at the Embassy) automatically leads to the provision of a residence permit, Foreign Missions do play a large part in the residence permit application procedure. Indirectly, they do receive residence permit applications and check the validity of certain official documents of the applicant. No, we have not deployed permanent or long-term officials to Missions from the Immigration and Naturalization Department (IND). 	EMN NCP Norway	Yes	1. N/A. 2. There are cases where Norwegian foreign missions are asked to handle visa applications. The Directorate of Immigration can delegate authority to Foreign Missions to decide on applications for residence permits instead of forwarding the case to the Directorate of Immigration. Up to August 2019 the Embassy in Manila has had the authority to grant clear cases for some residence permits, for example. The case handling was done partly by long term expatriate staff in addition to their main responsibility of handling applications for Schengen visas (low season for visa cases) and partly by short term staff seconded from the Directorate of Immigration (high season for visa cases). Long term expatriate staff who deal with visa and residence cases are in many cases recruited from the Directorate of Immigration. As of August 2019, the Embassy in Bangkok took over the visa and residence cases from the Philippines (and Vietnam and Indonesia) in an organizational model we call “hubbing”. “Hubbing” of visa processing is a way to rationalize, streamline and professionalize. The Embassy staff will be able to handle applicants who speak a variety of languages. The need to re-organise and increase efficiency is a result of increased interest in traveling to Norway and the Schengen area. The Directorate of Immigration is still in a process with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs on how residence cases can be decided on at the foreign missions with a special view to the Embassy in Bangkok. 3.
