			Voluntary returnees who are taking part in a reintegration project can receive additional assistance for reintegration in cash and/or as payment in kind. The type and amount of the benefit depends on the reintegration project available in the respective country. Participants in the project "RESTART II - Reintegration Assistance for Voluntary Returnees to Afghanistan and Iran", implemented by IOM, receive € 500 in cash upon return. People returning under the ERRIN framework usually receive a financial assistance of € 200 in cash. --- Source: Ministry of the Interior 2. 			6. The initial financial assistance, paid prior to departure, is to be considered primarily as a contribution intended to meet the needs during the journey and, depending on the amount, for the first period after the return. A challenge hereby is to find a system that is clear for all actors involved and easy to explain and administer. The cash assistance provided by the Service Provider upon return serves particularly to cover the needs after the return. A specific advantage is that with this payment the Service Provider can already establish a basis of trust. --- Source: Ministry of the Interior

			4. No. It's very rare, therefore there is no need for such contracted cooperation. 5. N/A 6. The general rule is to make all the assistance in kind (via IOM offices on spot). 	EMN NCP Estonia	Yes	1. All reintegration assistance provided by IOM Estonia under AMIF and co-funded by the Ministry of the Interior within AVRR programme, takes place in an in-kind format. Limited cash is provided to reach to final destination and if needed support during first week or two after arrival. Provided support has no geographical limitations, as long as the person is eligible to participate the programme. 2. Mainly prior to return to country of origin at the point of disembarkation. In some occasions persons might receive it after return through IOM network of offices. 3. In cash and at the point of disembarkation. If after return, the person would need to contact IOM office in the country of origin. 4. IOM and the Estonian Ministry of the Interior have signed a project donor agreement. 5. The cash support ranges from 50-200 EUR per single adults; families are entitled to support up to 500 EUR, depending the size of the family. 6. As the cash assistance is limited, then overall no disadvantages from IOM Estonia side.

	EMN NCP Finland	Yes	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Yes, Finland provides cash assistance to returnees. The support can be max 2 000 euros to adults, but usually it is something between 200-1 500 euros. Children returning with their families get half of the support of adults. Finland has divided countries into four categories and the support amounts are based to these categories. The categories you can see from our webpage https://migri.fi/sv/bidrag-till-olika-lander in Swedish or in English: https://migri.fi/en/amounts-of-assistance-by-country The categories are based on ODA listing, with some political decisions made due to e.g. high amounts of asylum seekers from certain countries.</li> <li>2. 200 euros is paid in Finland (children 100 EUR), the rest is paid in the country of origin after return. In exceptional cases, like at the moment to Iran, more cash can be paid at the airport in Finland.</li> <li>3. Finland uses extensively the support of IOM, so it is up to the local procedures of IOM how the payment is done. Usually it is cash payment, in Russia apparently via bank transfer.</li> <li>4. IOM (ERRIN service providers only handle in-kind).</li> <li>5. Finland has an extensive contract with IOM in AVRR services which includes the service fees of IOM. What is the amount of service fees happened in CoO we are not aware of since it is all on one budget line.</li> <li>6. The advantage of “outsourcing” the activities to IOM is easiness and in the case of IOM a fairly good level of trust in working operations. The disadvantage is the lack of transparency when you have done the outsourcing and don’t get to access the actual transactions.</li> </ol>

Following amounts are applicable: 1.000 EUR per adult/ UMCs, 2.000 EUR per family. b) Federal States: In addition to the reintegration assistance provided by the programmes of the BAMF, some of the federal states (Bundesländer) also provide returnees with cash assistance to support their reintegration in the country of origin. Due to the fact that a compilation of the reintegration programmes (or the lack thereof) of all federal states would go beyond the scope of this AHQ, only a short synopsis of the best practices of the federal states is provided.

			Some of the federal states have the option to provide reintegration assistance in cash to returnees in the scope of their own federal programmes in addition to REAG/GARP/ Starthilfe Plus. The exact amount of assistance is usually dependent on the individual case and the federal state. 2. a) BAMF: The cash assistance is paid in the country of origin 6-8 month upon return. b) Federal States: In the majority of the federal states, the cash assistance is paid prior to the return to the country of origin. In some federal states (i.e. Bavaria, Baden-Wurtemberg, Saxony Anhalt)the cash assistance is paid out in the country of origin. 3. a) BAMF: The assistance is paid in cash by IOM in the country of origin. b) Federal States: If cash assistance is paid in the country of origin, it is usually handled via bank transfer or Western Union or MoneyGram. 4. a) BAMF: The Federal Office for Migration and Refugees has a contract with IOM. b) Federal States: No federal state has reported to work with a service provider (i.e. IOM) to hand out the cash assistance. Sometimes NGO's (Caritas, Red Cross, etc.) who offer return assistance in addition to REAG/GARP / StarthilfePlus work with branch offices of their organisations in the countries of origin. 5. a) BAMF: The contract with IOM is project based and the costs include several services. The costs for payment of cash assistance are not based on each payment but rather on an estimated amount of payments during the contract period. b) Federal Sates: If the cash assistance is provided with the aid of a financial service provider, service fees apply for each transaction. The fees are covered by the federal state responsible for the payments and are not being subtracted from the amount of cash assistance paid to the returnees. In case of NGO's, in some cases extra fees had to be paid.

			6. a) BAMF: The BAMF has a good cooperation with IOM who can operate in all the countries where payment of cash assistance is relevant. b) Federal States: According to the federal states, having no service provider (i.e. IOM) in the counties of origin who can help with making the payments is seen as problematic. Making money transfers with the help of a financial service provider always incurs fees. In addition, in most cases the address and identity document of returnees are needed to make payments. Because of the structure of the financial service providers (mostly Western Union is used), making multiple payments incurs an increase of administrative effort. Also, sometimes safety measures of the financial service provider to prevent money laundering can lead to the locking of an account.

	EMN NCP Italy	Yes	1. No                  In Italy, the reintegration assistance to returnees is only provided in kind (goods and services) after the returnee's arrival in his/her country of origin, and it is functional to the implementation of the Individual Reintegration Plan. In the ongoing projects, the reintegration assistance amounts to Euro 2000 for single returnees and family heads, to 50% for family members and to 30% for dependent minors (but only if the minor has left with head of the family). In addition to the abovementioned reintegration assistance, a cash contribution is provided to each returnee upon departure. It amounts to Euro 400 and it aims at covering immediate needs at the arrival in the country of origin (such as clothing purchases, first accommodation, transport costs). This contribution shall be delivered to each AVRR beneficiary, upon departure, after the Border Police checks in airport, by the operator in charge of airport assistance. 2. 			3. In cash only. Payment cards are problematic for migrants in several countries. 4. Yes, all assisted voluntary return cases are contracted to IOM (international organization for migration), which includes whole process - from application and counselling to documents, tickets, transport to airport and reintegration in the country of return. 5. There is no specific service fee for making the cash payments. 6. Ideally the returnees would receive the cash already upon arrival to their country of origin, but many of them need this money to continue their trip from airport to home, as well as they choose to purchase some presents for the family to keep up the "image of a successful person". Therefore use of IOM office in respective country to receive cash is not an option for most of returnees. Approximately 1% of returnees could not resist alcohol in the airport transit zone, and consequently had problems to be accepted on the flight (some were cancelled). Most of returnees does are against any payment cards, since they do not believe that they will work in their countries. If they would be receiving payment cards, they would still take all available funds in cash in the airport. Banks are also reluctant to issue the payment card to a person, who does not have a personal code and legal status in the country.

Yes, this programme is called REAN (Return- and Emigration from the Netherlands) managed and implemented by the International Organization for Migration (IOM). When certain conditions are met, apart from i.a. counselling services and a flight ticket, returnees can receive up to 500 euro (340 euro for a child) financial support in cash, in addition to reintegration support of 1500 euro for an adult (2500 euro for a child) that will be provided in kind. The cash amount aims to support returnees with initial costs upon arrival in the country of origin (CoO), whereas the in kind amount aims to support returnees in creating an income generating activity (such as starting a small business, to become a partner in an existing business, job placement or to pay for school/education).</li> <li>2. In case the returnee is also eligible to in kind reintegration support, (s)he needs to contact the local IOM office to further discuss the reintegration plan. After approval of the reintegration costs by IOM the Netherlands the local IOM office can reimburse the returnee, upon receipt of invoices, up to the agreed reintegration amount. This is done through bank transfer mostly. Where possible, the Dutch government prefers to carry out the financial transaction in kind. These payments in kind would prevent a situation in which the cash assistance would be used for other things than the activities agreed upon.</li> <li>4. IOM.</li> <li>5. Disadvantage is that it requires a proper and time-consuming administrative administration to manage the payments and there is no monitoring how the cash has been used. Advantage of in-kind reintegration scheme is more control over the assistance provided. Disadvantage is more administration and thus costs it involves and challenges returnees face in terms of e.g. flexibility how to use the budget and related administrative requirements.

			3. In the majority of countries the assistance is paid through IOM in the country of origin. In Eritrea, Palestine and Syria the Swedish Migration Agency makes payment by bank transfer to the returnee's bank account in their home country after return. 4. The Swedish Migration Agency has a contract with IOM. 5. The contract with IOM is project based and the costs includes several services. The costs for payment of cash assistance is not based on each payment but rather on an estimated amount of payments during the contract period. 6. The Swedish Migration Agency has a well working cooperation with IOM who can operate in the majority of countries where payment of cash assistance is relevant. The problem is rather in countries where IOM are not operating, especially Eritrea and Syria where sanctions prevents bank transfers and makes international payments impossible/delayed.
